After Acute Bronchitis
AYER'S Cherry Pectoral

A PREACHER'S EXPERIENCE.

"Three months ago, I took a violent cold which resulted in an attack of acute bronchitis. I put myself under medical treatment, and at the end of two months was no better. I found it very difficult to preach, and concluded to try Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. The first bottle gave me great relief; the second, which I am now taking, has relieved me almost entirely of all unpleasant symptoms, and I feel sure that one or two bottles more will effect a permanent cure. To all ministers suffering from throat troubles, I recommend Ayer's Cherry Pectoral."—E. M. BRAWLEY, D. D., Dist. Secretary, Am. Bapt. Publication Society, Petersburg, Va.

LOVE AT NINE.

What though old Boreas roars without
And tears about unruly,
My sweetheart's nestling close to me
And says she loves me truly!
What care I now for other's smiles
Or frowns, however plenty?
She loves me, though she's only nine,
And I am nine and twenty.

None know my joy as I sit there,
Her arms around me twining,
For so called love of selfish minds
No more will I be pining.
One can accept without a doubt
The love that now is mine,
For love can never truer be,
Or purer, than at nine.

Dear little sweetheart, may I no'er
Betray the love I cherish,
May no unwitting act of mine
Cause it to fade or perish.
No compliment as sweet as this,
Though friendship may be plenty
Where one is truly loved by nine,
And he is nine and twenty.
—Rochester Post-Express.

A COQUETTE'S STORY.

She was still young, and there was a suggestion of coquetry about her eyes and mouth when she smiled in the fitful way that I had noticed in the short time I had known her. There was an intimation that she had once been brighter of disposition, although there was a sweetness and gentleness in her manner now that seemed to amply compensate for the listless, faraway air that was ever about her. After a few months of acquaintance that had brought me to the belief that this creature was one of the rarest of God's creations, I learned, by the merest chance, that the girl had a story—that her disposition had not always been the ideal one that had so completely captivated me. Once or twice I hinted, in the gentlest way possible, that the story should be told to me, but the great, brown eyes of the girl filled with tears, and I at once thought of something else to talk about. Two or three months afterward, in the midst of a conversation, the young woman suddenly left the channel of our talk and said:

"You never heard, did you, that I was once known as 'the village coquette?'"

"Was that your story?" I laughed.

"There is nothing funny about it," the girl returned seriously. "It hasn't been so very long ago—about two years, I think—that I—I changed. I was prettier then than I am now, and in my youthful folly I thought that it was my duty to play with the affections of all of the good fellows who were nice enough to think that they liked me.

"Early in my teens the boy of all the many of my acquaintance who was most devoted to me was young Owen Rand. He was a shy chap who did not boldly declare for me as others did, but in his quiet way he was ever at my beck and call and ever ready to do any little service that my caprice might suggest. He knew the flowers I liked best, he knew the candies that I thought the most toothsome, and no wet day did I fail to find my forgotten rubber coverings waiting for me when school was over. Somehow I thought only well of this fellow. He never seemed to me as a sweetheart, and once when he refused to take part in a game that every one was playing I reproved him just as I would a brother. It did not occur to me then; now I know that what I said pleased him. It indicated that I had an interest in him; that I thought of him as one whom I might command and reprove as my fancy indicated. I suppose that all girls are alike in this particular—they never love the brotherly boys any more than boys love the sisterly girls. Owen continued his unvarying kindness throughout our school days. When we were graduated, my biggest bouquet came from him. I was disappointed because he did not come down with the rest to say that he was glad or to make some other pretty speech of congratulation, but the other boys did this without flowers, and they made merry at our house and ate all the good things until there was neither time nor victuals left. I forgot all about my devoted Owen in the hilarity of that evening, and when one of the bold, handsome young fellows of the crowd asked me to go to a concert with him the next evening I forgot that there might be another who would expect the favor of my company, and the engagement was made. Owen came to see me the next day, with more flowers, and when there were no more good things to eat, and he murmured his gentle congratulations with such earnestness that I almost loved him as we sat there together alone. He was disappointed when I told him that I could not go to the concert with him, but he did not express bitterness or denounce any one.

"Some other time then," he said in a way that made me think that he did not care enough about it, but since then I have thought that it was only his way. I won't weary you with the details of how, month in and month out, he was unselfishly devoted; how he did not join with the others in their vapid compliments and ostentatious attentions; how at length he came to me and said goodby when he went out to Honolulu on a venture that he thought would yield a fortune.

"'Let me hope,' he said as I indifferently extended my hand, 'let me hope that when I come back you will still be here and still as free as you are now.'

"For a moment I was silent, and then with a half flippant air I said, 'You may hope.' After he was gone I felt rather sorry for my conduct in sending him away, but when his letters began to come I saw that I had been forgiven. It was not long before the regular correspondence became wearying to me. There was too much of the element of business in it on his side, while I, here at home, with all my friends and with familiar associations, was making the best of youth. So I stopped writing, and, after a time of patient, one sided correspondence, he stopped too.

* * * * * * *

"Months after I had received my last letter from poor Owen's new home out there in the heart of the Pacific I had a note from his sister. Owen had come back, and he was ill. Would I come to see him? I felt, for the first time in the long boy and girl acquaintance, a genuine interest. Of course I would go. It would seem so good to see his real, honest smile again; to feel the pressure of his great, warm, unaffected hand, and to hear his unstudied, earnest compliments. I was sorry about stopping the letters, and to make amend—there was no other reason, I thought—I would take extra pains with my toilet. When I got to Owen's house, I found the place closed and quiet, with the air of a serious illness about. There was a trained nurse who moved noiselessly and kept every one else on tiptoe. Then I learned for the first time that the poor fellow had been brought home to die! I will never tell you in the simple language at my command what I felt, how I felt, as the truth came over my dazed senses. I tried to feel indifferent and to express commonplace condolence, but my words choked in my throat and my eyes gazed stony at the wall ahead of me.

"Before I knew it I had been conducted into the sickroom. His eyes welcomed me for the voice that could not be raised, and a feeble motion of the fingers directed me to a chair that was quite close to the bed. For a long time I sat there silent. I could think of nothing to say, and his weakness kept back any words of reproof or forgiveness that he might have wished to utter. I took the sick man's hand. It was thin and cold—so cold that I sickened as I touched it. Thus I sat, looking back the unutterable gaze that came to me from the depths of a soul that was already half in the beyond. After a time Owen opened his lips as if to speak. The nurse hastened to him and put her ear close to the drawn, white face. Then she smiled and nodded.

"'He would like for you to kiss him once,' the nurse whispered to me.

"The simple, startling request cut into my very life and gave a strange relief. The first time Owen had ever asked me for a kiss!

"'On the forehead,' the nurse whispered as a caution to me. I pressed the hand that I held and leaned over the white pillow and its pallid patient. As my face came close to his a faint smile of the old kind came to the withered lips, and a trace of color mounted and blended with the cruel rainbows of death that encircled the eyes. It seemed that he was happy. As I came closer the smile grew radiant, and the color deepened, while the great, honest eyes slowly closed. I placed my lips to his brow, and over each of his lowered lids I pressed a kiss. When I raised my head, I was happier. I looked at Owen. The smile was still there, and the color had faded a bit. Involuntarily I pressed my hand to my mouth. My lips were damp. The nurse crossed gently to the bed and folded the thin, drawn arms over the breast.

"The only favor I had ever shown to my devoted lover was given too late for him to know."—St. Louis Republic.

English Captain In Chinese Service.

In engaging the services of a competent British officer to organize its navy the Chinese government—i. e., Li Hung Chang—was obliged to resort to duplicity in order to effect a semblance of reconciliation between the naval service and the mandarin system. After the experience gained in his first term of service in China Captain Lang declined to re-enter it without adequate substantive rank. Whether this stipulation was made by the British board of admiralty before giving him leave to serve or was imposed by Captain Lang himself is immaterial. What the viceroy had to do was to contrive a form of words which would satisfy the condition without disturbing the Chinese official arrangements.

Captain Lang was given the title of coadmiral with Ting, while all authority was secretly withheld from him. So long as Admiral Ting was present Captain Lang did not discover his true position. His advice was followed; he was on the most cordial terms with his co admiral, and there was nothing to show he was not, de facto, commander in chief. As soon, however, as an accident caused the two to be separated the situation was revealed. Lang's order to hoist the admiral's flag was disobeyed, and Commodore Liu assumed command of the fleet. An appeal by telegram to Viceroy Li only brought stronger confirmation of the fact that Lang's Chinese rank was never intended to be other than a sham.—Blackwood's Magazine.

A Novel Music Lesson.

A highlander, having to teach a chum in his regiment to play the bagpipes, began to instruct him in reading the music in the following way:

"You see that chap with a white, round, open face?" pointing to a semibreve between the lines. "Well, he moves slowly from that line to this, while you beat one and take a long blow. Now, if you put a leg on him you make two of him, and he moves twice as fast. If you black his face, he runs four times as fast as the white faced one. Then, if you bend his knees or tie his legs, he will hop four times faster than the white faced one.

"Now, when you blow the pipes, remember that the tighter these chaps' legs are tied the faster they run, and the quicker they are sure to dance."—Glasgow Herald.

His Address.

Mrs. Littlewit (proudly)—Only just think, Charles has gone to address a public gathering.

Friend—I didn't know he was a speechmaker.

Mrs. Littlewit—Nor I, but he's been called upon to make a statement before a meeting of his creditors.—Pick Me Up.

Napoleon's Generosity.

Count de P—— had been raised by Bonaparte to honors and dignities, but for some unaccountable reason he betrayed the confidence which his patron had reposed in him. When Bonaparte became cognizant of the man's treachery, he ordered him to be arrested. He was to have been tried the following day and in all probability he would have been condemned, as his guilt was fully established. In the meantime Mme. de P—— solicited and obtained an audience of the emperor.

"I am very sorry for your sake, madame," he said, "that your husband should be mixed up in an affair which places his ingratitude in so glaring a light."

"Perhaps he is not so guilty as your majesty supposes," said the countess.

"Do you know your husband's signature?" inquired the emperor, taking a letter out of his pocket and handing it to her.

Mme. de P—— rapidly perused the letter, recognized the handwriting and fell into a swoon. When she came around, Bonaparte put the letter into her hands, saying:

"Take it. This is the only legal evidence that exists against your husband. There is a lighted fire behind you."

The countess quickly snatched up the important document and threw it into the flames. P——'s life was saved, but as for his honor, not all the influence of a generous emperor could avail to restore it.—Chicago Daily News.

Glad to See Him.

New members of congress feel shy and lonesome. To be thrust suddenly in among almost 400 members, many of whom they have never seen, and only a few of whom they have ever heard of, is rather a trying experience. To make a speech under these conditions takes some courage. James Kerr, ex-member of congress from Pennsylvania, recently told of his experience in going into congress for the first time. He came down from Pennsylvania raw and green. He sat in his seat for several days, and in that time managed to pick up a formal speaking acquaintance with one or two of his neighbors. One day he was sitting in his seat, disconsolate, listening to the reading of some tiresome bill, when the member who sat next to him, who had served two terms, came in like a breeze and said cheerily:

"Hello, Jim."

Mr. Kerr wheeled in his chair and said eagerly:

"Say that again, will you, old man? It sounds like home."

"Well, Jim, let's go down to Murrayville and talk about home."

The reference to Murrayville is unintelligible to the outsider, but Mr. Kerr had learned by that time that the name referred to the house restaurant, where oysters and the cup that cheers were to be had, and they wended their way down stairs.—New York Tribune.

Making the Sound of Hoof Beats.

In these days of war plays and stage realism the sound of hoof beats is worked into pretty nearly every melodrama. Very few people know how the effect is produced, and very few, too, could make the noise right even if they had the apparatus. It takes quite a lot of practice to be a good "horse," as it is called. The necessary outfit consists of a table on which is a long marble slab covered with rubber graduated from an inch thick down to the thinness of a piece of paper. The operator has strapped to each hand half a cocoanut shell, on the edge of which is fastened a horseshoe. He starts in pounding them on the thick rubber to imitate hoof beats in the distance and gradually works along to the thin part as they are supposed to come nearer, and finally ends up with a clatter on the bare stones as the horse is pulled up just outside the scene.

This is considered generally to be the most effective of all the hoof beat machines.—New York Herald.

And Then He Proposed.

There had been a brief interval of silence, and he felt that he ought to say something.

"I see that the students of sociology have figured it out," he began, "that education"—

He paused as if in doubt whether he ought to proceed.

"Yes?" she said encouragingly.

—"that education is having a bad effect upon matrimony," he continued; "especially the education of women."

"I never did believe in too much education," said she softly.

She waited for him to speak, but he said nothing.

"I'm glad I never knew my lessons, anyway," she added.

Some men are slow to take a hint, but they are quick to understand when they are hit with an ax.

He saw the point.—Chicago Post.

India Rubber Tree Fruit.

The fruit of the india rubber tree is somewhat similar to that of the Ricinus communis, the castor oil plant, though somewhat larger. The seeds have a not disagreeable taste and yield a purplish oil. It is a fairly good substitute for linseed oil, though it dries less rapidly. Mixed with copal blue and turpentine, it makes a good varnish. The oil may be also used in the manufacture of soaps and lithographic inks. The seeds are somewhat like tiny chestnuts, although darker in color. The Indian girls are fond of wearing bracelets and necklets made of them.

The Egyptian reed which was used for making the pens found in Egyptian tombs is a hard variety, growing to about the diameter of an ordinary goose quill. Pens made from it are said to last for a day or two and do excellent work.

A florist, who claims to know, says New York uses 30,000,000 roses and 15,000,000 carnations every season.

Palestine is about the size of New Jersey, but more books have been written about it.

RAISING OF THE BEAR FLAG.

THE types made us say in last week's issue that the Bear Flag was raised in this town on June 15th, 1846. It should have read, as in all previous issues of the INDEX-TRIBUNE, June 14th. The Santa Rosa Democrat in commenting on celebrating the Bear Flag event, as suggested in these columns, says:

"Nothing could be more appropriate than such celebration as is there recommended. June 14th will also be American Flag Day. By a strange coincidence the Bear Flag raising was on the anniversary of the raising of the national flag. It was on Sunday morning, June 14th, 1846, a little after daylight, that the Bear Flag party entered Sonoma. The Native Sons took the bear as their emblem from the Sonoma event. It was indeed a great day in the history of California."

WE of Sonoma breathe more freely now that his honor, the Mayor of San Francisco, has successfuly emerged from his encounter with the delicate art of State courtesy. Our fellow citizens from Italy certainly can find nothing at which they can be offended. We may all return to the subject of grape pruning, bicycles, and the High School with the assurance that for the time King Humbert and Uncle Sam are good friends.

THE new photography discovered by Dr. Roentgen has already proved to be a valuable addition to the medical profession. A young woman of Berlin swallowed a needle last week and was suffering much pain. From the fact that she expectorated blood the physicians believed that the needle was lodged in the lining of her stomach. She was taken to the Roentgen Laboratory and photographed. When the plate was developed the needle was seen to be in the lower right hand corner of the stomach. A surgical operation was performed and now the patient is recovering. Dr. Roentgen will be remembered as a great man and his discovery is a grand one, still it is but a step in the onward progress, whose end is the perfect understanding of nature's laws.

THERE is considerable discussion among the members of the Society of California Pioneers concerning the proper place to erect a statue of their illustrious benefactor James Lick. A portion of the members wish to see it placed in Golden Gate Park, while others believe that the niche provided for it in the Pioneer Building is the more appropriate location. The prime object in erecting such a statue is to give fitting expression to a deep and heartfelt love for one of the world's greatest philanthropists, and to remind the present and future generations of the good that can be done with money wisely given to the public. In order that the greatest good may be done the statue should be placed where the greatest number will see it. Without question the place is Golden Gate Park. Of the tourists visiting San Francisco at least ninety per cent visit the Park, and there is good reason to believe that not half of that number ever see the Pioneer Building, and of the 300,000 inhabitants of the city there are few who do not go to the Park from one to ten times a year, while 50,000 would be a liberal estimate of those who visit the Pioneer Building once in a life time.

THE police of Oakland are at a loss to know what to do with the two young men—boys—who have recently been burglarizing in that place. Some believe that they should receive the same treatment that would be given any criminal under similar circumstances, while others are of the opinion that a departure from the ordinary mode of procedure should be made. The question "is crime a disease," immediately presents itself. Is the individual entirely responsible for his acts? Are prisons erected for the purpose of punishing the offender or are they places in which the criminally inclined are to be educated out of their bad habits? At present the former idea, that of stern punishment, seems to be held by the public in general. If a physical law is defied the result is disastrous. Jump from the top of a building and you will be hurt, put your hand in the fire and you will be burned. But the operations of physical laws are rapid, and furthermore there is no chance to escape them, so people seldom defy them. If the telling of a lie were followed as certainly by punishment—hurt—as is the jumping from a house top there would be very few lies told. If stealing were answered by a pang as certain as that which follows the putting of one's hand in the fire there would be but little use for locks. But there are men who would experience pain more severe than burning if they should lie or steal. Such, however, have been educated morally, their surroundings have been wholesome and they have been in contact with good things. The trouble with these boys is that they have received scant moral training and they have been in contact with vice. The result is they steal. Now, it is the duty of the State to sequester them from all temptations and if possible educate them in matters of right doing, for though they know right from wrong their natures are blunted and they do not know or feel strongly enough the effects of their conduct to stay their hands.

FROM the reports of the Paderwski concerts one is led to believe that only women can appreciate music, and that the artistic success of the engagement is to be measured by the number of petticoats that struggle to kiss the coat tails of the distinguished pianist, or in other ways demonstrate to the man of sense that they should eat a whale if they wish to have brains sufficient to prevent the impression going abroad that our Home for the Feeble Minded is not possessed of all the idiots in the State. It is not true that women are by nature more musical than men, if we base our conclusion on the names that have made and played the music of the world. To be sure women attain great fame as singers, but so do men. Recall, if you can, some great women composers and instrumentalists. There is not one who stands with Handel, Rubenstein, Wagner, Bethoven, Chopin, Schumann, Schubert, Bach, Mendelssohn, Liszt, Hayden, Mozart or Paderwski.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers, that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of Testimonials.

Pursued by a Demon.

How many suicides, think you, reader, have been committed by persons driven distraught and hunted to their doom by the demon of chronic ill health? Countless. For instance, we know, do we not, that hypochondriasis is a monomania—a sort of minor madness produced by chronic dyspepsia? Again, insomnia, or sleeplessness often a result of the same cause, culminates in a derangement of the reasoning faculties. It is, therefore, of momentous consequence to prevent the arrival of disease at its chronic phase, when it daily and nightly scourges the sufferer to a dangerously uncertain goal. No medicine known to science as a means of arresting the maladies to which it is adopted, exists equal to Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. Among these complaints are chronic indigestion and insomnia, kidney and rheumatic ailments, constipation and liver trouble. Appetite is improved by the Bitters, the blood fertilized, and bodily substance and vigor increased by it.

THE REBEKAHS.

Verdant Degree Lodge, No. 99, Installs Its Officers.

On Thursday evening last Verdant Degree Lodge, No. 99, installed the following officers to serve the coming year: Miss Clara Cheney, P. N. G.; Mrs. John Wagnon, N. G.; Miss Effie McCaskie, V. G.; Miss Margaret Linehan, Recording Secretary; Miss Ella Van Every, Financial Secretary; Mrs. Culbertson, Treasurer; Mrs. J. M. Cheney, Warden; Fred Batto, Conductor; Mrs. A. J. Van Every Chaplain; J. H. Albertson, Inside Guard; John Wagnon, R. S. of N. G.; J. M. Cheney, L. S. of N. G.; Mrs. J. Revie, R. S. of V. G.; Wm. Kerner, L. S. of V. G. The installing officer was Mrs. Jaekle of Ivy Lodge, Grand Marshal, Mrs. E. Shaw, assisting. After the business of the Lodge had been transacted light refreshments were served to the invited guests and members by the ladies of the order. Verdant Rebekah Lodge is composed of many prominent people in this valley and is in a flourishing condition.

Firemens' Election.

The Volunteer Firemen held their annual election last Wednesday evening and selected the following officers to serve for the ensuing term: J. M. Cheney, President; J. E. Poppe, Chief; G. S. Harris, First Assistant; Andrew Goess, Second Assistant; L. Modini, Foreman Engine; George Breitenbach, Foreman Hose Cart; Geo. Engler, Foreman Hook and Laddder; Jas. H. Albertson, Secretary; A. G. Bulotti, Treasurer. The election for Chief and Foreman of Engine was hotly contested, Chief Poppe being elected by three majority and L. Modini got in by one vote.

Arrested.

L. Maffei was arrested yesterday on complaint of Mrs. R. J. Snyder for taking and hauling gravel off her premises without her consent. The arrest was made by A. Griffith, who was especially deputized by City Marshal Robin to do the business.

Preliminary Examination.

The preliminary examination of Frank Burris, Dan Burris and Henry Bates, charged with assault by means and with force likely to produce great bodily injury, will take place before Judge Cheney next Thursday. A. G. Burnett will represent the defendants and attorney Weber of Santa Rosa will assist acting District Attorney Butts in the prosecution.

Roll of Honor.

The following is the Roll of Honor of the Sonoma Grammar School. It is based upon scholarship, attendance and deportment:

Sixth Grade—Julie Granice, Frieda Wegner, Theo Bates, Jimmie Dormann, Lillie Bulotti.

Fifth Grade—Mabel Moses, Guy Weems, Roy Stockwell.

Fourth Grade—Rena Small, Harold Oliver, Maggie Fouts.

SUSIE M. SHAW, Teacher.

Brevities.

Louis Breitenbach hauled several tons of flour from El Verano one day this week. It was consigned to F. Duhring, Sonoma, from McNear & Co., Petaluma.

The late J. H. P. Martens of Glen Ellen just before he died transferred by deed to his wife, Mrs. Catherine Martens, his property in Glen Ellen. The deed was recorded in Santa Rosa last Monday.

Ah Fan, a Chinese employed in the vegetable garden on Spain street, died last Monday of cancer of the stomach. The remains were shipped to San Francisco for interment in that city on Tuesday.

The attention of our readers is called to the new advertisement of Pedroya & Cornelius, proprietors of the City Market, adjoining the Postoffice. Both gentlemen are well-known in this valley and ask for a share of the public patronage. They keep constantly on hand everything in their line.

Jack Douglas was arrested on Friday afternoon of last week by City Marshal Robin for disturbing the peace. He resisted arrest and made it pretty lively for the arresting officer. He tumbled him all over the floor in Leech's blacksmith shop and the officer had to call on Jo Lewis to assist him. The next morning Douglas pleaded guilty and was fined $10, which he paid.

OFFICIAL SHORTAGE.

The Grand Jury's Expert Says that Gil P. Hall, Ex-County Recorder, is Behind in His Accounts $5,000.

For some time past the Grand Jury has had an expert accountant engaged in examining the books of ex-County Recorder, Gil P. Hall, with the result that an alleged shortage of $5,000 was discovered.

On the recommendation of the Grand Jury the Board of Supervisors passed the following resolution last Saturday, but which was not made public until Monday:

WHEREAS, it appearing to this Board as shown by the expert's report to the Grand Jury, submitted to this Board that Gil P. Hall, as County Recorder in and for the county of Sonoma, State of California, and during his incumbency as such, from the first Monday after the first day of January, 1891, till the first Monday after the first day of January, 1895, during which period he was the duly elected, acting and qualified County Recorder, received large sums of public money by virtue of his said office, which moneys belonged to and were the moneys belonging to the county of Sonoma, and were received by the said Gil P. Hall, by virtue of his office, in trust for said county of Sonoma; all of which public moneys received by him as aforesaid were paid by him into the treasury of Sonoma county, except the sum of $5,000, which sum of $5,000 he has refused, failed and neglected to pay over and account to the said Sonoma county as required by law, and he does still refuse, neglect and fail to pay over and account to said county of Sonoma for the same,

It is therefore made the order of this Board that the District Attorney of this county demand of the said Gil P. Hall, officer as aforesaid, that he immediately pay into the treasury of this county the sum of $5,000, and if he failed to do so within five days after demand that suit be brought against his bondsmen to recover the same.

Gil P. Hall was interviewed on Tuesday last by a reporter of the Santa Rosa Democrat. He said, in speaking of the alleged shortage: "Had I been guilty of misappropriating the funds, as claimed, I should certainly have refunded the money, as opportunity was offered me to do so. When the case comes to trial everything will be satisfactorily explained. In the meantime I would ask my friends for suspension of judgment. A big hula-baloo has been raised over a distortion of facts and figures."

THE DRESEL RESIDENCE.

A Model $10,000 Country Home.

One of the finest country residences in Sonoma county is that of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Dresel, which has just been completed and will be occupied by them the latter part of this month. It is built on the high land overlooking the vineyards which surround the place on all sides. It is located one mile east from Sonoma. The edifice is two stories in height with a large cellar and attic, and contains sixteen rooms, closets, pantries and all the improvements of a modern country residence. It is to be heated by steam and lighted by gas. The house is surrounded on three sides with verandas ten feet wide and the entrance to the reception hall is furnished with large double doors embellished with beveled-edged French plate glass. The reception hall is spacious and is one of the features of the house. Leading off from this are the parlors, and other rooms, among the latter being Mr. Dresel's "den." In addition to these on the first floor is the childrens' play room, dining rooms, kitchen, bath rooms, pantries and washroom, all of which are models of neatness and taste.

On the upper floor leading from a broad hall are the bedrooms, six in number, and a well-equipped bath room. Fire hose is kept on both floors in case of emergency. The interior finish is natural wood, which gives the halls a substantial appearance. The house, which faces the south, is surmounted by a handsome cupola which commands a magnificent view of the surrounding country.

Mr. and Mrs. Dresel planned their new house from foundation to roof, and when they submitted the plans to architect Lutgens he admitted he could not improve upon them and they were adopted in almost every detail. The cost of construction and laying out the grounds surrounding the edifice was $10,000.

To retain an abundant head of hair of a natural color to a good old age, the hygiene of the scalp must be observed. Apply Hall's Hair Renewer.

Families visiting Sonoma will find the Sonoma House a first-class hotel in every respect. *

Miss Evelyn Waugaman, granddaughter of Hon. Robt. Howe has entered the Irving Institute, San Francisco, as a student.

Mrs. Antone Kiser, whose dairy farm is located near this place, is now turning out some fine butter and cheese, which commands a high market price.

Capt. Hauto's schooner, "The Four Sisters," plying between Embarcadero and San Francisco, is doing a heavy freight business for this season of the year.

Hon. Robt. Howe attended a regular meeting of the Directors of of the Insane Asylum at Napa last Saturday. He was accompanied by his wife and his daughter, Miss Dora.

M. Marti, one of our enterprising dairymen, is jubilant over the recent rains. He says feed is plentiful and the outlook for the dairy interest is promising the coming season.

Joe McMullen, the geneal and popular young station agent at this place, is kept quite busy attending to the business of the Southern Pacific and Donahue roads, but still he finds time to make occasional visits to Sonoma.

A gallant young gent from Sonoma met with quite a mishap down here the other day. He was speeding along on his rubber-wheeled steed and meeting a young lady acquaintance he essayed to do the polite thing by raising his hat. Not being an expert on the wheel the concern went back on him as he raised his "dicer." He took a tumble into a convenient ditch, much to the amusement of your correspondent, who together with one of the charming widows down this way, was an eye-witness to the whole business.

The King place, two-and-a-half miles west of this place, and the Stuart farm, between Sonoma and Santa Rosa, exchanged hands this week.

Wm. Towle has leased one of Dr. O'Donnell's cottages and will build a blacksmith shop near by which will be open for business in a short time.

Henry Hahman of the firm of C. A. Wright & Co., Santa Rosa, visited the California Home on business connected with his firm on Tuesday last.

Bev. F. B. Perkins preached in the Congregational Church last Sunday. Rev. H. H. Wykoff, formerly of Sonoma, will occupy the pulpit next Sunday.

There is considerable rivalry between M. F. Turley of this place and the Western Iron Works of San Francisco over securing the contract for the iron work on the new county bridge over Stuart creek. Latest reports indicate that Mr. Turley is not in it.

A candidate for the honors of Sheriff of Sonoma county has suddenly loomed up in this neck o' the woods. It has come to pass in days gone by when a blacksmith can become a Sheriff or a State Controller for that matter. Our man is a blacksmith, and a blonde—not the blonde mentioned in last week's paper—and has the support of quite a number of influential wire pullers and ward politicians.

Items of a personal and social nature are thankfully received at this office and will be edited by Marjorie Dow.

Mr. Frank Norris, the Johannesburg correspondent of the Chronicle, whose letter was published in last Sunday's issue of that paper, was a class mate of Mr. Weed and Mr. H. E. Hyde of this place. He is a very versatile young man of about twenty-five years. Before he entered college he had published a book of poems and during his stay in Berkeley he contributed to the College paper and Overland Magazine. He also wrote the Junior Day farce for his class. As is seen by the illustrations that accompany his letter he is a man of fine artistic ability, which he trained in the art school of Paris.

Mr. and Mrs. D. Hager, little son and Miss Dowling of San Francisco were guests at the Granice residence last Sunday. Mr. Hager is the proprietor of a large shirt factory in the metropolis.

Lowell has on one of her roadsides a large urn, which is kept constantly filled with fresh flowers at the expense of a wealthy lady who resides in the vicinity, as a memorial to her pet poodle, which was killed by the cars at that point.

John Ludeman of Santa Rosa visited old friends in Sonoma Sunday.

Miss E. Martens and Miss Pearl Allen drove from Glen Ellen to this place on a visit last Sunday.

D. D. Davisson spent Sunday with friends in Glen Ellen.

California imports yearly over $3,000,000 worth of poultry and eggs. Only think of this enormous sum sent out of the State every year. It means almost $3 for each man, woman and child in the State, or $12 for every voter who goes to the polls on election day. Now, this is all wrong and tends to poverty.

Miss Marcella Glazier is visiting her parents in San Francisco.

Benj. Weed, principal of the High School, has purchased a twenty-three pound Eagle wheel, on which he has been taking a daily spin the past week.

Miss Grace Shaw of this place will be married in the near future to a prosperous and well-known young farmer of Livermore Valley.

Apply castor oil once a day to warts from two to six weeks and they will disappear.

The students of the High School are agitating the proposition to take part in the Rose Carnival which takes place in Santa Rosa in May.

Henry Bates has had his property on Napa Street plowed and set out in fruit and ornamental trees.

Winter millinery comprises hats of all sizes and shapes, and the display of fashionable head gear was never more varied. Tam O'Shanters and effects that suggest tams are plentiful. The former are much seen in velvet, there seeming to be an especial craze for tams of plaid velvet.

Robt. A. Poppe, attorney at law, had legal business at the County Seat last Monday.

The Rev. O. E. Hotle, pastor of the Methodist Church in this place, will deliver a sermon on "The Second Coming of Christ" to-morrow morning. This will no doubt be a very interesting sermon as Mr. Hotle is a very fluent talker.

The visit of Grand Master Gosbey of the Independent Order of Odd Fellows to Sonoma Lodge, No. 28, last Saturday evening brought out a full attendance of members. Brother Gosbey exemplified the work of the order in a most impressing manner and won encomiums from all present for the able manner in which he did his work. After the Lodge meeting stood adjourned the members escorted their distinguished guest to the Toscano Hotel, where he was sumptuously banqueted.

The eighth annual banquet of the Sonoma Volunteer Firemen took place at the Toscano Hotel last Wednesday evening. About thirty-five laddies and a number of invited guests were present to do justice to the good things spread before them by Messrs. Ciucci & Co. Speeches were made by Fred T. Duhring and other invited guests, and a merry time was had by all present. Messrs. Carl Dresel and J. E Poppe contributed the wine, which was "nectar fit for the gods."

SONOMA INDEX - TRIBUNE.

SONOMA, SATURDAY, FEB. 15, 1896.

It Came Hard.

In France, as in most other countries, it is necessary to give one's age when making a statement in a court of justice, as well as in many other official proceedings. But Frenchwomen of mature years are noted above all other women for their unwillingness to state their age.

On one occasion a lady who had to testify was accompanied to the court by a numerous company of her friends, and when the magistrate asked, "How old are you?" there was such a coughing and clearing of throats, as of people suffering from severe colds, that all that could be heard in the courtroom was "——ty years!"

Through the amiability of the magistrate, this more than half suppressed response was allowed to stand, but the tribunals are not always so lenient. On another occasion a magistrate asked a woman:

"What is your age, madam?"

"Whatever you choose, sir," answered the lady. She was under oath.

"You may put down 45 years, then," said the magistrate to the clerk. "What is your occupation, madam?"

"Sir," said the witness, "you have made a mistake of ten years in my age."

"Put down 55 years, then," said the magistrate. "Your residence"—

"Sir," exclaimed the lady, "my age is 55 years, not 55!"

"At last we have your statement," said the magistrate, and he proceeded with the examination.—Youth's Companion.

An Attentive Gallant.

Among the audience at one of the popular theaters were a young man and a young woman who appeared to be either newly married or on the verge of it. The young man was as attentive as he could be, and the young woman, who wore all the earmarks of a spoiled child, took all his little kindnesses as a matter of course. Between the first and second acts the courteous gallant whispered to his fair one for a moment, and she nodded her head affirmatively. The young man arose and went out of the theater through a door leading to an adjoining candy store. He returned a few minutes later accompanied by a colored boy in white coat and apron, who carried in one hand a tray with a glass of soda water upon it and in the other a napkin. He stood in the aisle while the young man besought his lady to refresh herself with the glass of soda. The eyes of the entire audience were upon them. The young woman smiled at the glass disdainfully and waved it aside. A facetious youngster in the front row of the gallery ruthlessly fractured the prevailing silence with the suggestion: "Slap 'er on de 'rist, de sassy t'ing. Get 'er some shampy. She don't want none o' yer temp'rance drinks." The young man blushed and sat down and looked miserable during the rest of the play.—Philadelphia Record.

An Old Love Letter.

The following love letter, written by a Kentuckian in his youth, and bearing date in 1823, may be of use to some of our more modern but less effusive and tropical lovers, as an example in erotic epistolary correspondence:

MY DEAR AND ADORABLE POLLY—As the heavens yield gloomy aspects, making null and void my timidical feelings, I sit down to promulgate to you, most holy and immaculate virgin, that I hold a kind of biennial reverence for your most sacred charms, but owing to the intense frigidity of the circumambient atmosphere it has discomboborated my respiration like a ship tossed on the tumultuous ocean in sight of the delightful land and then tossed back again. Oh, if there is any tender pity lies within that snowy bosom, delay my raging passion, or I shall doubtless pass out of this world in a hurricane of sighs to that sweet elysian which gives dreams of consolation to heal lovesick hearts. Your fond adorer, etc.

It may reduce the percentage of romance to state that the writer died an old bachelor about 20 years ago.—New York Sun.

An Old Soldier's Recommendation.

In the late war I was a soldier in the First Maryland Volunteers, Company G. During my term of service I contracted chronic diarrhoea. Since then I have used a great amount of medicine, but when I found any that would give me relief it would injure my stomach, until Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhœa Remedy was brought to my notice. I used it and will say it is the only remedy that gave me permanent relief and no bad results follow. I take pleasure in recommending this preparation to all of my old comrades, who, while giving their services to their country, contracted this dreadful disease as I did, from eating unwholesome and uncooked food. Yours truly, A. E. BENDING, Halsey, Oregon. For sale by all dealers.

KIDNEY.

E. W. JOY COMPANY—Gentlemen: I have suffered from kidney trouble for two or three years. I would have to get up in the night to void my urine from ten to fifteen times. My sleep was disturbed and I became very thin and nervous. No appetite; bowels constipated. I have taken two bottles and gained fifteen pounds. Sleep well. Have to get up about three times during night, and am very much better in every respect. Will continue to take your Vegetable Sarsaparilla, for believe it will entirely cure me. Signed. MR. EDWARD. It is a harmless substitute for Paregoric, Drops, Soothing Syrups, and Castor Oil. It is Pleasant. Its guarantee is thirty years' use by Millions of Mothers. Castoria destroys Worms and allays feverishness. Castoria prevents vomiting Sour Curd, cures Diarrhœa and Wind Colic, Castoria relieves teething troubles, cures constipation and flatulency. Castoria assimilates the food, regulates the stomach and bowels, giving healthy and natural sleep. Castoria is the Children's Panacea—the Mother's Friend.

Castoria.

"Castoria is an excellent medicine for children. Mothers have repeatedly told me of its good effect upon their children."
DR. G. C. OSGOOD, Lowell, Mass.

"Castoria is the best remedy for children of which I am acquainted. I hope the day is not far distant when mothers will consider the real interest of their children, and use Castoria instead of the various quack nostrums which are destroying their loved ones, by forcing opium, morphine, soothing syrup and other hurtful agents down their throats, thereby sending them to premature graves."
DR. J. F. KINCHELOE, Conway, Ark.

Castoria.

"Castoria is so well adapted to children that I recommend it as superior to any prescription known to me."
H. A. ARCHER, M. D., 111 So. Oxford St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

"Our physicians in the children's department have spoken highly of their experience in their outside practice with Castoria, and although we only have among our medical supplies what is known as regular products, yet we are free to confess that the merits of Castoria has won us to look with favor upon it."

GIVEN AWAY TO INVENTORS.

$150.00 every month given away to any one who applies through us for the most meritorious patent during the month preceding.

We secure the best patents for our clients, and the object of this offer is to encourage inventors to keep track of their bright ideas. At the same time we wish to impress upon the public the fact that such as the "car-window" which can be easily slid up and down without breaking the passenger's back, "sauce-pan," "collar-button," "nut-lock," "bottle-stopper," and a thousand other little things that most any one can find a way of improving; and these simple inventions are the ones that bring largest returns to the author. Try to think of something to invent.

IT IS NOT SO HARD AS IT SEEMS.

Patents taken out through us receive special notice in the "National Recorder," published at Washington, D. C., which is the best newspaper published in America in the interests of inventors. We furnish a year's subscription to this journal, free of cost, to all our clients. We also advertise, free of cost, the invention each month which wins our $150 prize, and hundreds of thousands of copies of the "National Recorder," containing a sketch of the winner, and a description of his invention, will be scattered throughout the United States among capitalists and manufacturers, thus bringing to their attention the merits of the invention.

All communications regarded strictly confidential. Address

Royal Etiquette.

On one occasion Queen Victoria, Louis Philippe and the Duke of Wellington paid a visit to Eton college. They were invited to sign the visitor's book. The French king thoughtlessly took up the pen and signed his name at the top of the page. Etiquette, however, forbade Queen Victoria to sign her name under any other. She therefore signed on the top of the next page. She then took up the pen and handed it to the Duke of Wellington, who was so excited at the contretemps that he actually signed his name "Weggington." And, by the way, it may be recorded that etiquette forbids the queen to converse with tradesmen. When a purveyor waits upon her, the queen addresses her remarks to an equerry, who in turn addresses the expectant merchant.—Philadelphia Times.

The Achæan League.

The Achæan league was formed by the 12 towns of Achæa for mutual protection against foreign aggression. It was broken up by Alexander the Great, but reorganized B. C. 280 and again dissolved B. C. 147. The second of these leagues comprised all the leading cities of the Peloponnesus, and, indeed, most of the cities and states of Greece. It was this league which contended with the Romans for the independence of Greece; but, its troops being defeated by Metellus at Scarphæa and by Mummius near Corinth, the league was dissolved, and all Greece submitted to the Roman domination.

Were Not In Her Set Anyhow.

The teacher of the infant class at the Sunday school, to interest the little ones, had begun to tell them the story of the fall of man, when a mite of a girl was heard to exclaim half aloud, "Oh, I'm so tired of that story about the Adamses."—Boston Traveller.

PRICKLY ASH, POKE ROOT AND POTASSIUM

Makes Marvelous Cures in Blood Poison Rheumatism and Scrofula

P. P. P. purifies the blood, builds up the weak and debilitated, gives strength to weakened nerves, expels diseases, giving the patient health and happiness where sickness, gloomy feelings and lassitude first prevailed.

For primary, secondary and tertiary syphilis, for blood poisoning, mercurial poison, malaria, dyspepsia, and in all blood and skin diseases, like blotches, pimples, old chronic ulcers, tetter, scald head, boils, erysipelas, eczema—we may say, without fear of contradiction, that P. P. P. is the best blood purifier in the world, and makes positive, speedy and permanent cures in all cases.

Ladies whose systems are poisoned and whose blood is in an impure condition, due to menstrual irregularities, are peculiarly benefited by the wonderful tonic and blood cleansing properties of P. P. P.—Prickly Ash, Poke Root and Potassium.

SPRINGFIELD, MO., Aug. 14th, 1893.—I can speak in the highest terms of your medicine from my own personal knowledge. I was affected with heart disease, pleurisy and rheumatism for 35 years, was treated by the very best physicians and spent hundreds of dollars, tried every known remedy without finding relief. I have only taken one bottle of your P. P. P., and can cheerfully say it has done me more good than anything I have ever taken. I can recommend your medicine to all sufferers of the above diseases.

SEQUIN, TEX., January 14, 1893.
MESSRS. LIPPMAN BROS., Savannah, Ga.: Gentlemen—I have tried your P. P. P. for a disease of the skin, usually known as skin cancer, of thirty years' standing, and found great relief; it purifies the blood and removes all irritation from the seat of the disease and prevents any spreading of the sores. I have taken five or six bottles and feel confident that another course will effect a cure. It has also relieved me from indigestion and stomach troubles. Yours truly,
